Richmond Wellbeing

The Art of Wellbeing

Richmond Wellbeing is delighted to announce the launch of its inaugural art competition and exhibition The Art of Wellbeing. The exhibition will invite members of the West Australian Aboriginal community to share their culture through their art by putting forward their interpretation of wellbeing in their chosen artistic form such as painting, photography, and sculpture.

Wellbeing. Is it a feeling? Is it a place? Is it the emotion you feel around family, friends and loved ones? Is it the music of your heart, the dance of nature or the simplest things, which touch your soul and speak volumes?

Let your imagination run wild, for example on a canvas embroidered with inspiration and emotion.

From the entries we receive, a maximum of twenty finalists will be chosen and paid $200 each for their artwork. One winner will receive the enriching experience of working with celebrated artist Janine Daddo and highly respected Noongar artist Wendy Hayden.
